Representative Jenkins of Wisconsin, who s in charge of the new District code, now pending in the House, has received a letter from Mr. Arthur S. Browne of this city, "In looking over the proposed new code of the District of Columbia, the bill for which is in your charge, several gentlemen members of the Protestant Episcopal Church, in this city, have noted that it apparently repeals the Maryland vestry act of 1798, under which the said church is governed in the District of Columbia, and also the acts of the legislative assembly of the District of Columbia amendatory thereof. The Episcopal Church in the District of. The Episcopal Church in the District of Columbia has no desire whatever to have these acts repealed, but, on the contrary, regards them as of the very highest value and importance. I have no doubt that it was not the intention of the framers of the code, or of the House committee, to repeal these acts.

"It is thought by several gentlemen of our church that the repeal chapter of the proposed code should contain an additional exception to those already recited, to the effect that the code does not repeal the laws referred to."

QUESTION OF REPEALING ACT RE-LATING TO INSANE PERSONS.

Comment Upon Letter of Dr. Richardson by Attorney Duval-Constitutional Phase.

Dr. Richardson, superintendent of St. Elizabeth's Insane Asylum, recently addressed the Secretary of the Interior a letter upon a suggested favorable recommendation by the Commissioners of the District of the proposed amendment to the act regulating commitments to the asylum. The letter was referred to the Commissioners, and by them to their attorney, who had advised the repeal of the act of January 31, 1899, and the re-enactment of the prior procedure of trial by jury on the subject. Today the Commissioners received from their attor-ney a letter, in which he states that the question of the constitutionality of the present law, which fails to provide for the present law, which fails to provide for the determination by a jury of the mental condition of a person sought to be committed to an insane asylum, is liable to be raised at any time by one of the numerous persons now proceeded against at the rate of six per week, or by habeas corpus by some one already committed under existing law.

Referring to Dr. Richardson's communication, which was published in The Star at the time, the Commissioners' legal adviser says the doctor ably discusses the subject from the standpoint of the physician and administrator of the hospital for the insane. Dr. Richardson suggested that "when the objection to the present law and the proposed amendment is analyzed it will be seen that these are more expensive, and that the proceedings may not be constitutional." He also suggested that to repeal the present law and to re-enact the old method of jury trial, would be to take a long step backward.

Information Often Unattainable. Very properly, says the attorney, Dr. Richardson seeks to secure information which will be of assistance in the treatment of the insane, doubtless a very desirable object, but in a very large percentage of indigent insane cases, some having homicidal tendencies, committed at the inhomicidal tendencies, committed at the instance and for the protection of the public, this information, the attorney believes, is simply unattainable. In most cases, he states, they are waifs who have drifted into this jurisdiction, and no one knows their antecedent history or whence they came.

The objections to the present law, the attorney points out, are three-fold: Its cumbrousness, its expensiveness and its unconstitutionality. In the latter connection he quotes at length the opinion of the Court in General Term in the case of in re Bryant, 3 Mack., 493, in which the court, the then appellate tribunal of the District, said, among other things: "There must be a regular adjudication of the question by due process of law, without which even the chancellor cannot act, and due process of law in establishing the insanity of a person has long been declared to be by inquiry through a jury. It would be impossible, therefore, that we should recognize unsworn statements of two physicians to be due process of law. This deprivation of the liberty of a citizen upon the ground of lunacy is a matter of very grave importance, because it may easily happen that for fraudulent purposes, perhaps with a view to deprive a person owning property of his control of it, a perfectly sane man might be sent to an asylum by his relations, upon a certificate of two physicians, and be illegally confined there for years. We hold, therefore, first, that these sections of the Revised Statutes do not contemplate compulsory seclusion in this institution without due process of law * * and, secondly, we hold that the whole matter of the care of insane persons is regulated by the act of Maryland of 1785, which includes this proceeding of an inquiry by jury." stance and for the protection of the public, Opinion Indorsed.

"I believe," states the attorney, "the opinion of the court in that case is concured in, without exception, by the members of the present Supreme Court of the Dis-trict of Columbia, and at least three of hem have so expressed themselves. • • I fear we would find ourselves in a most I fear we would find ourselves in a most embarrassing condition if the act of Con-gress should be declared unconstitutional, as the superintendent of the Government Hospital for the Insane would be unable to make a return justifying the detention of any of the persons who have been com-mitted under its provisions. The question of its constitutionality is liable to be raised at any time."

MARCH EXPORTATIONS.

Larger Than Those of Any Corres-ponding Month in Our History. March exportations are larger than those and double the average for the month of March during the decade ending with 1896. The total exports of the month, as shown by the figures just reported by the treasury bureau of statistics, are $134,313,348, against $104,559,689 in March of last year, $75,574,185 in March, 1896, and $66,516,571 in $75,574,185 in March, 1896, and $66,516,571 in March, 1893. Thus the exportations of March, 1900, are more than double those of March, 1898, and 25 per cent greater than those of March of last year and, as already stated, are larger than those of any preceding March in our history. Indeed the reports of the bureau of statistics show but one month (December, 1898), in the history of the export trade of the United history of the export trade of the United States in which the total exportation was as large as that of March, 1900, the month of December usually being the heaviest export month of the year.

Not only are the March, 1900, exports the heaviest in the history of our foreign commerce, but the total for the nine months ending with March is also greater than that of any corresponding nine months in the history of our exports. The total exportations in the nine months ending with March, 1900, are $1,653,832,655, against $347,919,405 in the corresponding months of 1807 and $515,499,635 in the corresponding months of 1808, having thus last year, $925,005,326 in the corresponding months of 1807 and $515,499,635 in the corresponding months of 1886, having thus doubled in fifteen years and increased over 53 per cent since 1836.

The steady increase in exportations is the more remarkable in view of the fact that exports of agricultural products are only about the same as those of the corresponding months of last year, the notable increase of more than $100,000,000 in the nine months in question being largely in manufactures. In the eight months ending with February (the details for March not yet being completed) the exports of agricultural products were practically the same as those of the corresponding eight months of the preceding year, while those of manufactures showed an increase of $61,000,000.

These astonishing figures of the March exportations make it apparent that the total exports of the fiscal year 1900 will exceed those of any preceding year in our history, since for the nine months of the fiscal year for which the figures are now at hand the total exports are $105,000,000 greater than those of the corresponding months of any preceding year. It seems probable that the total exports of the year will reach $1,300,000,000 and that manufactures will supply fully $400,000,000 of this vast sum.

Imports also show a marked increase over last year, the principal increase being in Imports also show a marked increase over Imports also show a marked increase over last year, the principal increase being in manufacturers' materials, which in the eight months ending with February were $60,000,000 greater than in the corresponding months of the preceding year, while manufactured articles for use in the mechanic arts also showed an increase of over $20,000,000

GEN. GOMEZ IN SANTIAGO.

He Angers the Whites by Recogniz-ing the Black Party. A dispatch from Santiago de Cuba yester-

The black party, represented by the Cubano Libre, which continues occasional publication in defiance of the orders of the authorities, who had directed its suppression, sent a tug to meet the steamer Maria Herrera at quarantine, and succeeded in inducing Gen. Gomez to accompany them.

Meanwhile, another tug, carrying the civil governor, Gen. Castillo, the mayor and other officials representing the dominant white party, was entirely ignored by Gomez The black party, highly elated, took the guest to the landing, where an immense crowd gathered on the trail private wharf of a local boat club.
